

Celebration 2016

By Jim Weed

There are several events that are on the “must do” list, at least if Ferrari events are high on your list. Here on the east coast we have the Celebration Exotic Car Festival. Located in sunny Florida, the cars line the brick streets of Celebration, a planned Disney community.

The Celebration Festival actually begins on Thursday at Daytona for two days of track time. Cathy wanted to go to Daytona again hoping to get another ride around the historic track. Since she got her work on the last issue done early she was able to enjoy one track day. Her experience follows in “Daytona in a Daytona”.

I, on the other hand, still had to get everything ready to print and finalized before I could leave. I worked several long days just to be able to leave Friday morning for Celebration. This time we would be driving and able to spend more time enjoying not only the concours, but some of the other activities that surround Saturday’s events.

Now in its thirteenth year, the Celebration Exotic Car Festival was created by brothers Jeff and Jim Ippoliti. A dedicated team of volunteers help out in all areas and 100% of the net proceeds go to charity. The charities include Make-a-Wish, Special Olympics and Arnold Palmer Children’s Hospital.

Unlike most shows where the public must pay to look, or the cars are displayed in an elegant “no touch” zone, the Celebration event is open to the public and child-friendly. There is a variety of automotive eye candy to look at and enjoy. But let’s not get too far ahead of ourselves.

After the short drive Linda and I arrive in downtown Celebration. We need our credentials and the plan for tonight’s activity. As we stroll through the bustling downtown area it’s obvious that something big is going on. Baricades and tents are being erected; a few cars are being placed. There is a transporter disgorging its contents and with that we run into Jeff Ippoliti who directs us to the helpful volunteers where we pick up our passes for the weekend activities.

We step into the lobby of the Bohemian Hotel located next to Lake Rianhard and immediately run into Steve Ahlgrim. Ahlgrim is one of the judges for the concours. We get the information we need on tonight’s activity; Arsenio Hall and Joe Piscopo at Hard Rock Live.

That gives us enough time to get checked into our hotel a short drive away, and take a nap.

We make it back to the Bohemian Hotel with plenty of time to catch the bus to the Hard Rock Live. With a police escort the buses pull out and traffic is held while we pass through intersections unencumbered. Friday evening traffic on Interstate 4 is stopped just for us. We feel like royalty since we are all alone on the freeway and the on-ramps are blocked just for us.

At the Hard Rock Live we are ushered upstairs to a grand buffet with open bar. Open bars can always be dangerous so I limit myself to several; hey, I’m working here.

Soon we are led down to our special area in front of the stage for the show. On stage there is a California T and a Maserati displayed. Joe Piscopo opens the show and Arsenio Hall follows. Both comedians are very funny. It was difficult to tell who was having the better time; the entertainers, or the entertainees.

As any regular reader of the Ferrari Market Letter should know, we are all about identifying Ferraris. So, yes, I was able to get on-stage and record the VIN, just in case anybody asks.

Saturday morning comes early after the long previous day. There is a beehive of activity already with cars and people lining the streets. If it is exotic, unusual or fun, there is a car for everyone.

Lamborghini, McLaren, Pantera, Lotus, DeLorean, muscle cars, movie cars and Ferraris are just some of the exciting automobiles showcased on the streets. Although I’m here for the Ferraris, I can’t help but look around at many of the others on display.

My heart stops at several Panteras but I tend to walk right by the Lamborghinis and McLarens, then we turn the corner of Market Street and the Ferraris fill both sides of the road. Red, yellow, silver cars fill the view.

Linda starts photographing cars and I get to visit. I immediately run into Bill Scott from Tarpon Springs. He sat just in front of us on the bus last night, we had talked about his 308 GTS QV then, now I get to see it in person. It is just as nice as he described; classic red with tan interior and well taken care of.

I move along the row taking in each car and talking to the owners. I run across Jim and Debbie Pyle, whom I've known a long time, we get into a conversation about the problems Jim is having on his British antique car. After some discussion we come up with several things to check for repairs.

Next to their 430 Scuderia is an F430 Spider in the special order color of Avorio, a cream ivory color, with Iroko interior. The ivory really makes the rich brown interior stand out. Of all the cars shown this one generated much interest from the crowd. Maybe because it was so different from the mass of red and yellow cars on the block.

Celebration has on the whole, newer Ferraris displayed. Aside from two Daytonas the oldest car was an early 308 GT4 brought by Tony Rienzi who also brought a number of 348 ts and 348 tb cars displayed at the top of Market Street. The first cars seen by the public, Rienzi can often be seen allowing children to sit in his cars, the Ferrari experience begins young.

One of the great things Celebration does well is the grouping of the cars. Each model has its own parking space and they are placed into serial number order. You know how we like that! The advantage is the ability to see subtle changes throughout production that might not be recognized otherwise.

A row of Testarossas begin with an early single-mirror example and progress through the model range ending with an F512M. Among the sea of red TRs is Richard Baumgart's yellow 512 TR and just down from him is Bill Luosey with a white TR and a Miami Vice tag. He is another one allowing the kids to sit in his car. Last year one of the kids damaged the seat, and although it took some time and expense to repair he was back again sharing the experience.

Two Daytonas grace the corner of Market Street and Front Street. It is this intersection that gathers the most people. Vince Vento has brought his beautiful Platino winning red Daytona and next to it sat a purposeful Daytona set-up for some serious track fun. Bill Bowdish brought his car all the way from Colorado to attend Celebration. If he didn't, he should have gotten a trophy for the farthest distance to attend.

This intersection is popular because of the special cars behind the barricades. Backed up to Lake Rianhard there are a number of movie and unique cars that for a donation you may get your photograph taken with the car.

Ever wanted to slide across the hood like Starsky and Hutch? Well you couldn't do that but you could stand next to it. How about the DeLorean from Back-to-the-Future? Austin Power's Shaguar decked-out with the British flag? Or maybe a 458 Speciale Aperta? Rick Workman brought his spectacular red with blue and exposed carbon fiber interior Speciale.

Ferrari of Central Florida had its usual great display with a tent, lots of Ferrari goodies and a nice line-up of inventory. The Triarsi Motorsports Challenge cars rounded out the display.

Saturday's dinner is at the Four Seasons at Walt Disney World. It is an eight-course experience of delectable tastes and wine. Throughout the evening the courses arrive along with another glass of wine. White, red, Champagne; there seemed to be no end. Of course, this was a prelude to the silent auction with the proceeds going to Make-A-Wish.

To get into the mood, one recipient of a wish came on stage, and along with a short video presentation, was introduced to the room. Gabriel Lavan-Ying had his wish come true when he became an Honorary Yosemite National Park Ranger. He is now Ranger Gabriel and his story was compelling enough to help the more non-silent auctions offered to the room.

Between a VIP race-day experience with Danica Patrick to a weekend ride experience with Paul Teutel, Sr. of Orange County Choppers, and several other exciting packages, there were many worthwhile dollars donated to charity that evening.

On Sunday there is a police escorted rally, that is held to the same high caliber of the other events and is an excellent finish to the weekend, but the Ferrari Market Letter must be printed and that means I need to be working Monday morning. We reluctantly head towards Atlanta.

Celebration is one of those high-energy feel-good events. The comradery of the people, the beautiful cars and the great cause makes Celebration one event that never gets old. Yes, we will be back next year, and the one after that. It's that good. See you next year!

DAYTONA IN A DAYTONA

By Cathy Roush

What could be more iconic than riding around Daytona International Speedway in a 365 GTB/4?

Nicknamed the "Daytona" by the media, NOT Ferrari, to commemorate Ferrari's 1-2-3 finish in the February 1967 24 Hours of Daytona, the 365 GTB/4 "Daytona" just happens to be my all-time favorite Ferrari.

So when Bill Bowdish e-mailed me in January (yes, JANUARY!) with his plan to drive from his home in Denver, Colo., in April to attend the Celebration Exotic Car Festival, near Orlando, Fla., and in particular to take his Daytona on the track at Daytona ... I started making plans to attend as well.

You don't have to ask me twice!

I met Bill Bowdish at the Annual Meet last year in Monterey, but I couldn't remember what he looked like, so I'm on social media looking for a face to put with a name. I stumble across a post by Tom Yang who got a ride with Bowdish at Laguna Seca. Bowdish does like to take his car on the track.

If you recall, in 2015 I attended the track event at Daytona and had three fantastic rides. I was hoping to see those guys again and relive the past, albeit only one year ago.

Unfortunately, Jeff Ippoliti has sold his 458 "Lightning McQueen-wrapped" Challenge car, and now has a single-seater Coyote Daytona Prototype which participated in the 2013 Grand-Am Series. Lightning McQueen now appears on Alan Wildstein's McLaren.

Coincidentally Joe Capasso sold his orange 458 Challenge to a friend of his who is still earning his wings, so to speak ... and while present, was not yet qualified to take spectators out on the track. Capasso was proud to show me HIS new car, a 458 GT3 ... but it was via photo only.

Strike two.

The Mueller's California was present, and so was Dan Cerio ... but the timing just didn't work out, not to mention the weather, and the day was over before I got a ride with him.

That puts a lot of pressure on Bowdish as my escort. Upon arrival at the track, I was on the hunt for the Daytona and found two gentlemen putting on helmets; one of them surely must be Bowdish ... the task of identification was narrowed to two.

Being Bill's first experience at Daytona, the first session he took an instructor along. He must have "passed", because the next session an instructor drove him around for fine-tuning of the corners.

Then there's me, hanging around his car, waiting for my turn. Oh, to be sure I walked around the pits to see what else was present this year.

Just what you'd expect: Porsches, Corvettes, a couple of Aston-Martins, a couple Lotuses, a couple Shelby Mustangs, BMWs – even an i8 plugged in to the wall being charged, a purple Viper with the plates PPL ETR, something called a Radical with a nose reminiscent of an Enzo or LaFerrari. Plenty of noise-makers.

But I kept returning to the bay where the Daytona waited. Finally Bowdish told me my turn would be at 1:30 ... I only had a couple of hours to wait!! During those couple of hours lots of other folks came by that bay to see the Daytona. Far and away the most popular car present and Bill was more than happy to talk about his car – which is mostly stock but for a few modifications he pointed out, primarily to keep the engine cool, as he says "I can't afford to buy a new motor every year".

At last ... I'm in a suit, got the ear plugs in (Bill's suggestion – I think this is what a racecar is SUPPOSED to sound like), and his helmet system wired for microphones so we can communicate. Buckled in, hand my phone over for the obligatory picture-taking, and off we go!

Let me tell you, doing 120 mph on the straightaway in a 45-year old car is FUN!!! To be sure there were faster cars on the track, but no one was in a COOLER car.

And remember, a Daytona doesn't have paddle shifters. I loved the up- and down-shifting ... often instead of braking at certain turns and those wider tires help with gripping ... that's the epitome of driving although Bill and I agree, we wouldn't want to do it for 24 hours.

During another session when the Daytona was on the track I took some video so I could recapture the sound anytime.

I was a little sad for my ride to end, but I consider it a success, certainly mission accomplished. Bowdish plans to attend the April 2017 event ... but you'll have to get in line, behind ME, for a ride.

MARC SONNERY SERVICES

PASSION, INTEGRITY, TRANSPARENCY. You may know of my humble books, Khamsin Registry, events and 24 years of articles, exhilarating yes but not for my bank manager. So one has to, eventually, make a living as well, hence I also broker classic cars, mainly those I love; Italian, sixties, seventies. My first sales took place in Europe and the US in the 1990's by way of an extensive transatlantic network. I am about as commercial as your accountant is romantic – cold speculators who never drive contact me at your peril – yet apply the same relentless drive in my quest for the finest classics as I do for historical research for proper books. My satisfaction is perfect service from initial enquiry to delivery and beyond, building relationships, friendships, finding worthy owners for fine cars. Enthusiastic drivers and collectors are most welcome. Should you wish to discreetly sell your fine classic I am at your disposal from A to Z. Reasonable fees, 100% satisfaction record. Other services provided please see the website. Based in France, meetings by appointment in nearby Geneva, Switzerland.

330 P4 REPLICA, chassis and motor from S/N 6067 GT. Built by Jim Carpenter, the body is handcrafted from fiberglass, carbon fiber and Kevlar. Porsche G50 transaxle adapted to fit the engine. The original 4 liter engine was retained and is fitted with a silenced (barely!) race exhaust. The engine is topped with three twin-choke, down-draft Weber 40 DCOE carburetors. The engine is rated at 340hp. Moving the engine to the middle of the car required the use of a rear mounted transaxle. The suspension is a mix of custom fabricated bits and 308 components modified to fit. Wilwood 4 piston brakes slow the car and Technomagnesio manufactured the wheels which are replicas of the original. Tires are by Avon. This car can be street registered as it is titled as a 1965 Ferrari 330 GT. Ferrari used this car in place of the original #23 car for a photo shoot to celebrate the anniversary of their 1-2-3 finish at the 1967 Daytona 24 hours against their bitter rivals Ford and the GT40 Mk II. $199,995. 4109 San Francisco Sports Cars, San Carlos, CA, Brad Goldstone, 415-847-4169

Built by Mark Gerisch of M&L Auto Specialists using factory plans for correct dimensions and accurate suspension pickup points. Proper 250 engine with a 128 block and 168 heads, engine number 4915. Slightly hotter cams and six Weber 38DN carburetors from Bob Norwood and dry-sump lubrication system from DK Engineering. Mr. Gerisch hand formed the aluminum body himself insuring both proper engineering and correctness of form and feel. The wheels are the correct sized Borrani with 5.5 X 16 front wheels and 6.5 x 16 rears. $750,000. 4109 Fantasy Junction, www.fantasyjunction.com, 510-653-7555 (CA)
